

Why not promote innovation and technological advancement? I feel that by pushing this HDTV protection, you are limiting innovation and competition among hardware manufacturers of set top boxes, DVR's, and other electronics makers. I feel if you do this, why not just ban VCR's, DVR's, and so on?

Please re-think this decision and I hope you consider consumers needs and wants rather than big companies not liking the fact that there's something else consumers can record from.

Thanks.
